Seek To Assure Spots On Primary Ballot

Rhodes' 2 Big Proposals Pushed By GOP Majority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Republicans planned last-minute legislative maneuvering today in a bid to see that Gov. James A. Rhodes' two big constitutional proposals are considered in a statewide primary.

They regrouped forces Monday night after a move by minority Democrats nailed them to a deadline of midnight tonight on a bill assuring that primaries may be held in all political subdivisions.

Thirteen new bills were introduced in both chambers as the lawmakers began their fifth work week. Among them were proposals to extend war orphan scholarships to children of Vietnam servicemen and increase benefits to retired teachers.

Other new measures would allow the highway department to acquire land for enhancement of scenery along highways and increase from two to four the number of teachers on the seven-member state teachers retirement board.

House Minority Leader Frank R. Pokorny D-57 Cleveland Cuyahoga lined up Democrats to kill by a 61-37 vote an emergency clause on a bill requiring the state to pay for special primaries in local communities that do not have them scheduled this year. The clause needed 66 affirmative votes between sponsor Charles Sample.

and Republicans rule 62-37 in the lower chamber.

Rhodes wants primaries held statewide in May for consideration of his plan for a bond-issuing Ohio Building Authority and a GOP proposal to create a permanent plan for apportionment of the legislature.

Democrats said the issues could be considered in the November election voted for the bill itself. But without the emergency clause making the bill effective immediately, it needed passage by the Senate today to get on the May ballot.

It takes 90 days for a non-emergency measure to become effective.

Republicans apparently had one last out and they hinted they would take it. They hoped to note that the last legislature was under the same federal order "but it came up with no re-apportionment plan at all after several months of hard work."

Democrats held an hour-long caucus before the session and said afterward they would insist on a "long list of amendments" to the building authority proposal. Generally, they would restrict the powers of the building authority and increase its proposed membership from three to nine with not more than five of the same political party.

The study, prepared by the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Education and Research, Albuquerque, N.M., was part of a series on space cabin fire and blast hazards.

It suggested that the ease with which scientists handled previous fire threats involving oxygen in space cabins may have created "a false sense of security."

The flag-draped coffins of the astronauts were brought in a jet transport Monday from Cape Kennedy. Their families and family clergymen followed in other planes.

The Arlington burial spot is atop a knoll, from which a panoramic view of the Potomac River and Washington Monument can be seen.

The President disclosed in his budget message last week that he would submit legislation to:

—Amend the 1966 GI Bill to increase educational allowances and training time "to help assure that every returning veteran may attain a better education and job."

—Extend to veterans of the Vietnam era all compensation, pension and medical benefits accorded to veterans of earlier wars.

—Amend the servicemen's group life insurance program to enable each serviceman to increase substantially the insurance protection for his family.

President Scheduled For News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will hold his first news conference since Dec. 31 sometime this week.

Press secretary George Christian said Monday the President probably will face newsmen Wednesday or Thursday in the White House. He said the news conference will be open to radio and television coverage.

State law required that Councilman Robert W. Sample preside in place of Ernest Lowe, Council president. Lowe is acting mayor while Mayor George E. Willshaw is on vacation in Florida.

As the meeting concluded, Sample announced that "Council will accept these regulations, but we will confer with the City Planning Commission on any changes before legislation is presented for enactment."

State law required that Councilman conduct the public hearing and television coverage.

Johnson Asks Benefits Hike For Viet Vets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sends to Congress today a special message spelling out his proposals to increase benefits to veterans of the Vietnam war period.

As the hearing opened, Don Eckert, chairman of the Planning Commission, explained the history of the preparation of the "master plan" and the zoning regulations. Sample called for "criticism or comment" from the audience. Then he read letters in support of zoning from the East Liverpool Merchants Association and the civic affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

THE FIRST question came from Alfred Fricano of St. Clair Ave. He pointed out a new Valu Argued on the emergency clause between sponsor Charles Sample.

Public Hearing Conducted

Study Due For Questions In City Zoning Proposal

Council and the City Planning Commission promised Monday night they will confer on questions raised by residents during a public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance for East Liverpool.

About a dozen questions were posed by members of the audience in the hour-long hearing on the 58-page ordinance — most of them related to specific pieces of property.

Approximately 15 were in the audience. It was a joint session of Council and the Planning Commission, along with Daniel Ziegler II, a representative of Carroll V. Hill & Associates, the concern that drafted East Liverpool's "master plan," including the zoning regulations.

Johnson said his budget reflects a public concern that Americans who bear the hazards of current military service will receive a range of benefits similar to those enjoyed by veterans of previous conflicts.

Veterans benefits would rise considerably during the year beginning July 1 under his proposal.

Astronauts' Last Words

'We're On Fire! Get Us Out!' Paper's Report Says

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today that the last words heard from the three Apollo 1 astronauts who were killed last Friday were: "We're on fire! Get us out of here!"

The shrill voice was believed to be that of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee, the Times said in a dispatch from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

It was previously reported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that the last words, from an unidentified voice, were: "Fire in the space-craft!"

The Times' story gave this account:

The astronauts' last moments, clocked at 12 seconds, were described by an engineer who spent most of the day listening to tape recordings of the fatal test and who heard reports from men on the launching pad at the time of the tragedy.

Commander Chaffee and the other crewmen, Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II of the Air Force were scrambling, clawing and pounding to open the sealed hatch and escape the inferno in their Apollo cockpit, the source said.

But the hatch was unwilling he said, and they had no time to reach for the ratchet that is normally used to unscrew it. There was no automatic release button.

The first hint of trouble, according to the source, came in almost casual tones.

"Fire ... I smell fire," an unidentified astronaut reported, unintelligible shouting over the intercom.

Two seconds passed.

"Fire in the cockpit!" cried out the last words of distress: Col. White. This time the voice was sharp and insistent. It was here!"

There was silence for three seconds — then an hysterical shout from an unidentified astronaut:

"There's a bad fire in the spacecraft!"

A longer silence followed about seven seconds. There were sounds of frantic movement, unintelligible shouting.

Finally, after another four seconds, Commander Chaffee cried

"We're on fire! Get us out of here!"

Don Chaney of 801 Carolina Ave., Chester, announced today that he is leaving the service station business and has made plans to lease Chaney's Service Station, adjacent to his home.

Chaney said he will devote full time to the C & S TV Cable Co. in Chester, in which he is a stockholder.

The service station has been operated by the Chaney family for 32 years since 1935, when it was established by Don Chaney's father, Clyde Chaney, now in Florida. Don's brothers, Herbert and Ralph, previously assisted in running the business.

Don took over the station in 1957 when his father retired.

Today will be his last day at the station, Chaney said.

He explained he has made plans to lease the station to Joseph Burgess of Globe St., dairy truck involved in the incident of the Water Department in 82, of Substation Rd. was fatal.

Volunteers For Hazardous Duty

The nation's heart aches for the tragic deaths of Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White Jr. and Roger Chaffee, the three astronauts who had been chosen to start the Apollo series of space flights next month.

It aches for their families, friends and associates in U.S. space exploration.

And the ache is eased not at all by realization that U.S. astronauts have been fortunate in avoiding the kind of accident that happened last Friday night at Cape Kennedy.

Everything about the space program is fraught with unusual hazards. The hazards have been kept at bay only by extreme caution. The United States has not been willing to buy knowledge with life.

Yet, every astronaut has known when he entered the program that he was leaving security behind him.

Lt. Col. Grissom and Lt. Col. White both had survived the ultimate risk—orbital flight and recovery from the ocean. Lt. Cmdr. Chaffee would have been putting his life in jeopardy with his first flight.

IT IS GRIMLY ironic that the three men perished on the ground in a simulated flight, rather than in the course of risking the real thing.

Their countrymen had thought of every possibility of danger, except the one that overtook them—a fatal accident during a simulated exercise.

Each one of us had told himself that eventually danger would catch up to these brave men risking dimensions of danger never risked before.

All of us had tried to protect ourselves against the blow we felt sure must fall someday—the dreaded news that our astronauts had pushed their so-far fantastic luck too far. We thought we were prepared.

It was Lt. Col. Grissom, after all, who had almost drowned when his Liberty Bell 7 sank before recovery crew could reach it. And it was Lt. Col. White who had made the first "space walk" by an American astronaut.

THESE MEN knew how it felt to live with danger.

They and Lt. Cmdr. Chaffee had dedicated their lives to a dangerous job.

We do not know if they thought of themselves as combatants in a 20th century "war" for supremacy in space exploration, but they were fighting men as well as space scientists.

They had dedicated themselves to a project in which they might lose their lives. They were volunteers for hazardous duty.

The national heart is heavy.

The multi-billion-dollar space race grows even more expensive when it takes life as well as treasure.

An Encouraging Outlook

Few of those who complain about air pollution actually understand the complexity of the problem and the staggering expense involved in trying to reduce or eliminate it.

This is not to say that industry, schools, businesses and home owners are to be excused from taking steps to solve the problem, for the health hazard, discomfort and inconvenience certainly have reached the critical stage in many communities.

The Crucible Steel Co.'s schedule for abatement of the pollution at Midland is encouraging to residents of that borough. The dust, the smoke and the pungent odor from the plant should be reduced considerably by 1969.

To achieve the new standard of smoke emission, the steel firm will spend millions and revise its production methods.

Pennsylvania Health Department officials have hailed the Crucible program and expressed hope that other Beaver County firms will follow its lead.

The air pollution problem has been sensitive for Crucible for some years, not just because of criticism of the smoke and dust itself, but because of what appeared to be a tardiness in doing something about it.

The time spent in actually planning a workable system and the large amount of money invested in it should prove worthwhile not only to Midland and Crucible's employees but to all of the tri-state area.

If Crucible can solve the extensive pollution problem at Midland, certainly smaller industries and businesses can at least begin to take steps to solve theirs.

Time Well Spent

From the sensible questions asked and the answers received, it would appear that Monday night's hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance for East Liverpool was time well spent.

While the audience was comparatively small in relation to such an important matter, those residents who did take the time to appear brought forth pertinent points that could eliminate several unnecessary regulations from the final form of the program.

Those who presented their viewpoints have the satisfaction of knowing that they performed a service both to their primary interests and to the community itself.

The time to offer suggestions and complaints in such a program is before enactment. It's too late after approval.

By Truman Twill

It is preposterous to think all the best people in the country are equipped with degrees in law. Lawyers in public office should be held down to their fixed proportion in society, which would be somewhere around one per cent.

They should be like doctors, who are too busy lighting socialized medicine to have time left over to run for governor in the first place.

Or they should be like newspapermen, who are too busy telling everybody else what to do to have time to dabble in public responsibility.

The thought of Ole Diz running Ole Miss is something to brighten up a dull day.

You can see him a-rarin' back to let go of his high hard one, scuffing the dirt, eyeing the batter, then floating a curve up to the plate—the kind that roll off a table.

That would beat the gubernatorial image now common in this country—one sharp-eyed legal beagle eyeing all the other sharp-eyed legal beagles, waiting to see which one will be first to get his foot caught in a legal trap.

Come on Diz, fog it through, fella. Show them actor fellas what you baseball fellas can do.

Let's get some new faces in politics besides the Murphys and Reagans.

A Matter Of Economy

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

President Johnson's record budget has brought cries of anguish from economy-minded senators and congressmen and has been described by Great Society opponents as lavish, excessive and loaded with gimmickry. And so naturally everyone has vowed to trim it and reduce the budget drastically. But the big problem our lawmakers face every time is where to make the cuts.

It has to be done first in committee.

"Gentlemen, I am sure that we're all agreed that the President's budget is inflationary and unrealistic. It is our job as representatives of the people to see that not one more dollar is spent than is absolutely necessary."

"Well put, Muddlebacker. We must take a close look at every item in this book and demand justification for every last program."

"ALL RIGHT, let's start with item one. Why do we need the Okalucie Dam that's listed here for $40 million?"

"Because it's in my district. That's why we need it."

"Well, you don't have to get sore, George. I was only asking. Of course we need the Okalucie Dam. Item two. This seems like quite a lot of money—the Spiderwood post office building, 3.5 million."

"You keep your cotton-picking pencil off that Spiderwood post office building. I'd never be able to go back to Spiderwood and face the voters if you took my new post office building away from me."

"Couldn't we make it $3 million instead?"

"Sure we could, if you want to cut $5 million from the Mapleleaf Veterans Hospital in Deerhorn County."

"Now, wait a minute! You know it's taken me six years to get that veterans hospital in my district, and I'm not going to see one penny cut from it."

"Gentlemen, let's not fight. You can have your post office and your veterans' hospital. There are plenty of things we can cut. Let's go to item 14. Do we need $10 million for a clam-digging research laboratory in Swatford?"

"That's the most impudent question I've ever heard. You know and I know that my area has suffered heavily from a shortage of clams. This laboratory will provide work for 100 clam-diggers, not to mention the scientists it will attract from all over the country. You mess with my clam-digging laboratory and I'll start asking why we need an interstate bridge over the Little Fork Valley stream."

"The hell you will! That bridge will connect the town of coyote with the Heart's Nest bird sanctuary, and as far as my election in 1968 is concerned it's an absolute must."

"OKAY, THEN it's agreed. Ogelhorpe gets his clam-digging lab and Ripsnorter gets his bridge."

"Item 38. The question is, with expenditures what they are, should the government build a four-lane highway through the Caldonia swamp?"

"You bet your sweet life the government should build a four-lane highway through the Caldonia swamp. If you could read you'd see I was the sponsor of that bill and the contracts already have been signed."

"Sorry about that, Seersucker. I don't realize that was your baby."

"I accept your apology and to show there are no hard feelings I want you to know I'm supporting your bill to build a $3.56 million aquarium to Sam Houston at the Alamo."

"Well gentlemen, it looks as if there isn't too much we can cut."

"What about this $50,000 item for a head Start program in Mississippi?"

"Cut it."

"Slash it."

"Throw it out."

"Now your talking."

"Then we agree unanimously."

"You're darned tootin'. Let's get rid of non-essential spending once and for all."

Nixon Cranks Up

By Bruce Biossat

An important Romney-Nixon tug-of-war is on for the valued political services of Dr. Gayl Parkinson, retiring state GOP chairman of California.

At least two sources quietly passed the word during the two-day Republican National Committee meeting in New Orleans that people interested in the 1968 presidential candidacy of Richard M. Nixon have made a rich offer to Parkinson, retiring state GOP chairman of California.

At the same time, this reporter has had firm indications from other political figures that Parkinson himself is expressing keen desire to link up with the 1968 campaign forces of Michigan's Gov. George Romney—either in some key national role or as head of a well-mounted western operation.

The money involved has to be considerable, since Parkinson has an established practice as an obstetrician and would not likely abandon it for peanuts.

Though not widely known to the general public, the affable doctor has made substantial political headway in his years as California chairman.

Recently he has been serving as head of the party's organization of all state chairmen. He gained fame as a "unity man" last year by decreeing "Parkinson's law"—that Republicans battling each day in California's primaries should not speak ill of each other. Most party men treat him a moderate.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of the Nixon forces' bid for his services can hardly be overplayed. It is clearly part of a major crumby by his supporters, who include Texas GOP chairman Peter O'Donnell.

At conclusion of the national committee meeting at New Orleans, O'Donnell and Fred La Rue, Mississippi's national committeeman, went directly to New York. It is being presumed they did not go to Nixon's home town to see a hockey game.

The full scope of the early crumby for Nixon cannot easily be measured, but one seasoned party figure insists that "plenty of money is involved."

The most interesting aspect of the whole endeavor is that it is being carried on behind a "favorite son" facade newly erected by southern Republican leaders who until a few months ago were openly and loudly espousing the Nixon cause. One or two southerners in this category seem suddenly to have found almost inexplicable joy in the favorite son tactic.

The argument is that the GOP in the South was too rigidly and too quickly committed to Barry Goldwater last time, and that now—as has been widely reported—these people want to hang loose, stay flexible, enjoy being courted by many candidates, and perhaps not commit themselves until convention hour.

Some southerners speak so fervently on this subject that they give the favorite son device an air of at least surface plausibility. There seems little doubt many genuinely want to avoid the divisive ideological blood-letting of 1964. They proclaim their willingness to support any nominee.

Nevertheless, hard evidence, most particularly the incontestable word of the high bid for Parkinson's services, suggests that southerners are working behind the facade at a pace designed to get Nixon off and running on a big scale at an early date. Those who know Nixon, his makeup and his problems as a two-time loser believe he must jump in heavily or face sure failure in 1968.

Status Of U.S. Debated

One figure is missing from the economic and financial reports and statistics President Johnson sent to Congress.

It's how many people will ever read the volume of material or be able to get a clear impression of what is going on and whether or not bad times are coming.

The President's reports were prepared, of course, by economic experts, but touched up with the political phrases that proclaim the present era as unexampled in prosperity and contentment.

President Johnson says in his economic report: "In purely material terms, most Americans are better off than ever before."

Are people really better off than they used to be?

This correspondent worked for the Associated Press in Philadelphia in the summer of 1968. Out of his wages of $25 a week, he spent $12 for room and board and saved about $10.

On the weekend, one could get on a street car and for a ten-cent fare go to a suburban park several miles away. The areas enroute were full of trees. Beautification came naturally then.

Workers in factories could buy a glass of beer for five cents at a corner saloon and receive a free lunch which now would cost at least a dollar.

One could eat the best dinner in town for 60 cents. There were, to be sure, poor people, but they were willing to work. The government didn't subsidize the shiftless or lazy.

THE POPULATION increase in America has been phenomenal. When this writer came to Washington in 1910, the census showed approximately 92 million people. The estimated population today is more than twice that number—in excess of 197 million.

Indications are that before 1985 population will cross the one-quarter-billion mark.

Congestion in cities has multiplied the problems of America, with the creation of slums and a substantial increase in the number of poverty-stricken individuals crowded into urban areas.

Messages to Congress dealing with economic conditions tell of rising expenditures and growing deficits. The theory that the government can thrive and the nation can prosper indefinitely on borrowed money is defended by some of the President's advisers as normal in a huge economy.

Making ends meet in the federal budget is only one of many dilemmas. Budgets are no longer made up as heretofore. Changes have been introduced which Republicans emphatically denounce as "dishonest."

Again and again in the history of the world, the monetary unit of many a country has been gradually diminished in its purchasing power and eventually devalued or replaced.

Adam Smith author of "The Wealth of Nations," wrote nearly two centuries ago that this was a way to "cheat" the people.

Today, the dollar is steadily declining in purchasing power in this country as well as in its value among bankers abroad.

WHAT IS NOT generally realized in America is that the government has undertaken the task of managing the economy without using the law-making process to stabilize wages or prices.

The net result is that the group with the biggest political influence—labor unions—rules the roost, and the "managed economy" inevitably becomes unmanaged.

President Johnson's messages and reports to Congress are on the optimistic side. If things go bad, he will be able to say he made all kinds of proposals to Congress and suggested expenditures of many billions of dollars to strengthen the economy but that either Congress didn't cooperate, or strong economic

The fast-thinking mother of a Lisbon area child prevented possible death when the child's clothes caught on fire from a lighter with which she was playing Monday.

Virginia Lee Thornhill, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Thornhill of Lisbon R. D. 2, was in "satisfactory" condition at City Hospital today with first- and second-degree burns of the left side of the chest received when her clothes caught on fire from a lighter about 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Thornhill said that she had left Virginia watching television while she went to the cellar to do laundry. Soon afterward she heard her daughter scream and then run down the cellar steps with her clothes afire.

She wrapped the girl in a blanket and rolled her on the floor to put out the fire. A neighbor, Mrs. Doris Cusick, took them to the hospital.

FIVE-GENERATION FAMILIES are something of a rarity, although the tri-state area has several. This five-generation family got together for a fete in Irondale Sunday afternoon. The patriarch of the "clan" is John J. James, seated center, a retired coal miner who marked his 94th birthday anniversary Jan. 6. Mother-daughter combination shown are Mrs. Marie McLain, seated left; Mrs. Jean Nicholson, standing center, and Mrs. Patricia Jean Munk and daughter, Pamela Kay, two months old, seated right. All reside in Irondale except Mrs. Munk of Robertsville near Minerva. James was an avid sportsman and turtle hunter until late in life. Mrs. McLain is his eldest daughter.

Salvation Army Fetes 4 New Members Of Board

Rowland Kaufman, new chairman of the advisory board of the Salvation Army in East Liverpool, and four new board members were recognized during the annual dinner meeting Monday night at the Citadel.

Welcome as new members of the board by Capt. Richard Bosh were Harry George, Ralph Compa, Edward Maloney and James McGowan. They were presented pins, manuals and a book about the "Army."

Kaufman succeeds Harold Sneddon, who opened the program which featured talks by Capt. Bosh and by the Salvation Army divisional commander, Col. Giles Barrett of Cleveland. Sixty-seven attended.

Capt. Bosh spoke of the Salvation Army in East Liverpool, first established here in 1884 and of the work accomplished since.

He pointed out the Army has provided service for thousands. "I could recite the money spent, the numbers of families and individuals helped physically and spiritually."

"But the real East Liverpool story is why this work is being done," he declared.

"Only one facet of this is the example of the open air ministry," the captain went on.

The early officers who served in East Liverpool were men who loved God and loved people.

"The Army in those days was not liked by some, it was not accepted due to the then unorthodox methods such as praying and singing in the streets. Once the Army members were hosed down and marched off to jail."

Bill Proposes Bigger Role For Women In Public Affairs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A woman legislator says Ohio has more "wasted womanpower."

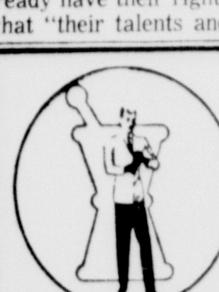

Under her bill, the commission would undertake a comprehensive study on the status of women in "employment practices and policies" of the state.

Proposed to do something about it, with the help of the men Rep. Ethel G. Swanbeck R-14 Huron is auditor of a bill that would create a permanent commission on the status of women resulting, she hopes, in a bigger role for women in public affairs and many other areas of life.

Ohio already has a 25-member committee on the status of women, set up last year by executive order, but that group will cease to function when it reports to the governor the first of April.

"My bill would create a permanent 25-member commission which would be a continuing group—a place for women to go with their problems. Ohio is one of only six states which has no commission," Mrs. Swanbeck said.

Mrs. Swanbeck, beginning her seventh consecutive term in the house, insists that women already have their rights but added that "their talents and energies

Council OK's Wage Boosts At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Ordinances combining the post of clerk and treasurer and granting pay increases to the street supervisor and cemetery sexton were approved by Council during a meeting Monday night.

The combining of the post of clerk and treasurer will go into effect for the term starting Jan. 1, 1968. The village had initiated legislation to combine the posts for the current term, but the action was not completed in time.

The wage of the Woodland Cemetery sexton, Earl L. Lane, a month to $200 and that of Street Supervisor Pete Grawall from $340 to $365.

Mayor Stanley Fitch expressed concern that the financial situation of the village could permit such wage boosts in addition to the recently-approvised insurance program for employees.

However, Councilmen indicated the wages were warranted and feasible, and voted unanimously for the two measures.

Warren Dunlap was re-elected president of Council. Mayor Fitch reappointed all committees for 1967.

Gillis Earl reported on plumbing repairs needed at the fire station. Remodeling of the Council room at the fire station has been launched with removal of a partition to enlarge the room and provide office for the mayor.

A request from James Pastore for reopening of an alley at the rear of his Main St. store was referred to the street committee. Pastore said the alley would be utilized for parking and access to the store.

Complaints relative to the deteriorating condition of the former Knights of Columbus building of Main St., now abandoned, were discussed.

Plans were made for obtaining new basketball backboards for the court in the East End. A report from Police Chief Bard Dietzel showed 1,181 miles patrolled in January.

Bills totaling $1,571 were paid. The next meeting will be Feb. 14.

Trustees Okay Resolution For Library's Funds

An annual appropriation resolution of $71,306.45 was approved when the board of trustees met Monday night at Carnegie Library here.

The figure is some $3,000 over that of last year, with salary increases for various library personnel included in the hike.

The resolution is presented the first of each year relative to necessary operating expenses through Dec. 31. The actual budget hearing on the library's needs takes place later at Lisbon.

The fund breakdown shows: Personal services, $34,250; materials, supplies, $3,786.70; contract and open order service, $6,844.77; fixed charges and contributions, $3,300; library service materials, $15,090.43; capital outlay, $6,234.55, and contingent (emergencies), $1,800.

Group Will Hold Vote On Feb. 26

Robert Thompson, president of the United Citizens Radio Association of America, spoke to Chapter 6 Sunday at the Wellsville Elks Home on Riverside Ave.

Nominations were held for officers, with voting set at the meeting Feb. 26. Those unable to attend the meeting may ballot for candidates from noon until 6 p.m. that day at the Elks home, officials said.

Mrs. Clayton Sayre and Art Craven of East Liverpool were received as new members. Four membership applications were received.

Donald Mackey, entertainment chairman, announced an open "coffee break" for Feb. 11 at 7 p.m. in the East Liverpool Odd Fellows Hall.

Visitors included Paul Stockman, president, and members of Lisbon Chapter 7.

The financial report was submitted by Robert Shallcross.

Jeanne Calhoun and Joseph Tipton were in charge of the social hour which followed.

Ninety attended. Ray Manning presided.

Finances Reviewed By Council At Lisbon

LISBON — Council met Monday night at the Town Hall to review finances with Clerk-Treasurer John Erbert and weigh requested salary increases against available funds.

The police department has a new pay schedule before Council and other workers have indicated informally they will request more pay.

No action was taken last night, with recommendations expected at council's regular meeting Feb. 13.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN HORN

Globe-Trotting With Sheldon Leonard

"You can budget everything needed the sunny months of June, July, and August there on location — except one invisible factor. That's the personality of the people of the country you're visiting," said Sheldon Leonard the other day.

The former suave gangster of the movies and comedian of radio is now executive producer of "I Spy." Not only is he a world traveler but he has made everybody on the series one too.

They have been filming their way around the world since the show about undercover agents, starring Robert Culp and Bill Cosby, made its NBC debut Sept. 15, 1965.

THE SERIES has covered a lot of ground, both geographically and rating-wise, since the premiere. Could Leonard elaborate? He could, would, and did, happily:

"In Hong Kong," he said, "the biggest problem was the literal nature of the Chinese mind. I once told a prop man I didn't like a chair where it was. I asked him to pick it up and take it to a corner."

"Later I found him standing in the corner holding the chair. I hadn't told him to put it down. It has to be all spelled out. The story must be true that the Chinese once copied an article so faithfully, a new auto, that it included a cracked headlamp."

"IN JAPAN there's an extreme affection for protocol. If anyone is offended, he goes off and sulks. If you don't compliment everyone — disaster. Shooting in a night club in the Ginza once, I thought I touched base with everyone. Then I called out: 'Let's hit the lights!' No lights. I had forgotten to compliment the electrician!"

"In Mexico the problems were the result of no one taking anything seriously. All were so anxious to please they promised everything — they promised the world. They didn't quite mean it."

"Italians have a charming habit of totally ignoring contracts, everything. I had to make an initial deal for the use of a place, then make contingent deals in case the proprietor had second thoughts, which he usually did."

"THERE WERE few inherent problems in Spain. But the country is harsh and difficult, the weather unpredictable. It was sub-freezing and torrid within a couple of hours. Do you know El Greco's painting, 'View of Toledo'? That's exactly what it was like. And the transportation was difficult."

The "I Spy" troupe is headed next for Morocco (end of March) and to the Greek islands.

London and England will come some time, Leonard said, but he didn't know when. He

Group Seeks More Aid For Gaston's Mill

LISBON — The Columbiana County Forests and Parks Council asked the county commissioners Monday for an appropriation toward the restoration of Gaston's Mill in Beaver Creek State Park.

Commissioners read the Council's letter and said they are willing to meet with the officers relative to the request.

Floyd Lower, secretary-treasurer, requested "such appropriation as the board may be able to make." He noted that appropriations previously made by the commissioners, together with funds donated by individuals and organizations, "have gone a long way in the restoration work."

Much more work remains to be done and money is badly needed. Lower wrote. He said the council has borrowed $3,000 to carry on operations until more funds are available.

Commissioners authorized the purchase of an IBM typewriter for the prosecuting attorney's office and the installation of a second telephone line to the Support Division Office for the use of Richard Rose, adult probation officer.

Ohio Statehouse Pickets Pointing To Sen. Collins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

There was picketing around the Statehouse Monday night, with more promised today, but not over the hot current issues of a building authority or reapportionment.

Five sign-bearers from the Ironton area had brought north their grievances against State Sen. Oakley C. Collins R-19 Lawrence, their boss at Collins Mining Co.

Along with two United Mine Workers organizers, Collins' colliers were publicizing issues over which his employees have been on strike since Dec. 14 and have legal action pending.

Collins employs about 92 non-union coal miners.

"Would Senator Collins mine coal for $1.25 per hour? That's what he expects of us," read one picket sign.

The strikers, while Collins was participating in legislative session, said top pay for any of his workers is $2 an hour.

They, and their signs, said Collins is being sued for approximately $60,000 in overtime pay which 25 miners contend in Lawrence County Common Pleas Court is due them from the past two years.

They also have an unfair labor practices complaint pending with the National Labor Relations Board.

The UMW organizers on hand, George Waters of Zanesville and Rodney Hatten of McConnellsburg, said they had signed 80 per cent of Collins' payroll but can't hold a bargaining representative election until the NLRB case is resolved. Sen. Collins declined comment.

Las Vegas, N.M., is named for the far-reaching "meadows" that practically surround the town.

New Criticism LoomsSenate Unit Eyes U.S., Viet Policy

WASHINGTON — Americanized U.S. bombing of the Communist in Vietnam has quickly moved north and said the gained center stage at Senate flight appeared to have begun as Foreign Relations Committee a civil war — not a Communist hearings on U.S. overseas invasion.

Despite protestations by gans, policies and outlook of Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D.-Ark., that the hearings are aimed at taking a broader look at Vietnam unfortunate, but add U.S. responsibilities abroad, ed: "I support the administration's initial session headed in its unwillingness to get toward renewed criticism of the out of Vietnam in any ignominious way."

Even Fulbright, who has sharply criticized the American that the war represents a test stance there, acknowledged of Western will against Communism is a topic almost impossible to avoid in any foreign policy discussion.

"It seems to poison our political life," he said.

A year ago, the Senate panel became the storm center in a national debate about the wisdom of the American course in Southeast Asia.

Against that background, a standing-room crowd turned out for the first installment of the committee's foreign policy review, a scholarly session with heads a 19-man State Department panel on the problems of East Asia. It is scheduled to meet for the first time Friday and Saturday, in private.

Rep. Ford Wants Johnson To Offer Revised Budget

WASHINGTON — House Republican Leader Gerald Ford wants President Johnson to submit a revised budget. He says the House Appropriations Committee could force him to do so by refusing to hold hearings on the $135-billion spending program.

In a Roanoke, Va., speech Monday night, Ford also called for a lower debt limit. He said "the President could cut several billions out of the fiscal 1965 budget if he would set a lower ceiling on it and instruct his budget director to squeeze spending under that roof."

Meanwhile, one of Ford's GOP colleagues attacked an administration attempt to get the national debt ceiling raised by $7 billion to $337 billion.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., told Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler he wants participation sales included in the debt figures. Byrnes' demand came as Fowler presented his case for an increase in the debt limit before the House Ways and Means Committee.

The administration plans the sale of $3.9 billion of participation interests in pools of government-held loans. Such sales are listed in the budget as "negative expenditures" and are used to reduce the spending side of the budget.

Fowler and Budget Director Charles L. Schultze insisted the sales of interest in government agency loans don't constitute a debt of the government, which has only a contingent liability to make them good if federal agencies fail to.

Schultze said if the participation sales were included in the national debt, all other contingent liabilities also should be included. This would raise the national debt some $105 billion, he said.

The committee recalled Fowler and Schultze for more testimony today. It is expected to take up the debt limit in executive session later this week.

The Senate rejected 63 to 13 Monday an attempt to provide more congressional muscle for pushing through Johnson's "Great Society" programs.

It killed a proposal by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to increase the membership of the Appropriations Committee by adding on an ex-officio basis, members of other committees which handle key administration spending plans.

University In Spain Closed After Rioting

MADRID (AP) — Educational authorities closed Spain's largest institution of learning, Madrid University, today after two days of battling between students and security police.

The university board of governors ordered all schools of the university, which has an enrollment of nearly 25,000, closed for three days. It ordered the schools of political, economic and commercial sciences closed indefinitely, saying they were centers of subversive activity.

Police and students battled with stones and clubs on the university's spacious campus Monday after the police halted about 700 students attempting to march to the rector's office to demand release of classmates seized after a similar skirmish last Friday.

U.S. Military Plane Crashes; All 3 Killed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A military contract plane carrying Air Force priority cargo crashed in heavy fog today and all three crewmen were killed.

The craft, a DC-6 operated by Saturn Airways, cracked up in a pasture two miles north of San Antonio's International Airport about 3:30 a.m.

Names of the dead were not immediately available.

Earl Cato, assistant chief of the control tower at International Airport, said the cargo carrier was inbound from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson, Ariz., for Kelly Air Force Base on the south side of San Antonio.

Fog closing in Kelly forced diversion of the ship to the airport about 15 miles across the city, Cato said.

The West German and Romanian governments reached formal agreement at a meeting between Romanian Foreign Minister Cornelius Manescu, who arrived in Bonn Monday and West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger also was present.

Zoning

King Market went into operation recently on the south side of Pennsylvania Ave. in a district that would be zoned "R-3," for a medium high density residence area. He said he understands more commercial enterprises are contemplated in the same immediate area and added that he believes the district should be zoned for a neighborhood shopping center.

He said that designation is proposed for the area almost directly across the street, which is occupied by the Thorofare Shopping Center. Fricano said he was referring to the block bounded by Pennsylvania Ave., Globe St., Walters St. and Andrews St.

Gilbert Simpson of 504 E. 6th St., representing M. & A. Motors, raised the same question about the same area. He said the auto concern plans to erect a new facility there to handle both new and used cars.

Sample replied that the decision on the zoning question "is at the discretion of Council."

S. M. Bell of S. H. Bell & Co., which occupies the former National Drawn Steel Co. plant in Klondyke, raised a question of zoning on river-front property which his firm owns near Little England. He said the zoning regulations list the tract as "S-1," land suitable for noncommercial recreation areas and similar uses. But the company expects to erect a warehouse and material-handling facilities on the site, he said. He said he believes it should be zoned for industrial use.

Ziegler said zoning the area as "industrial would be well within the scope of long-range planning." He added that: "Your request is pretty well-supported by the land use plan."

JOHN THOMPSON of Park Blvd., representing the Hall China Co., cited a section stipulating the number of off-street loading spaces required outside factories, warehouses, retail stores and so forth, based on the number of square feet in floor space. Since Hall China has about 500,000 square feet of floor space, the legislation someday might be construed to require the company to provide 50 off-street loading spaces, whereas it only has need for a half a dozen or so, he said.

Thompson pointed out that the amount of floor space is high in the pottery industry compared with the volume of the products it produces.

Ziegler said he can see the need for an amendment in the ordinance that would put a limit on the number of off-street loading spaces that would be required for any facility.

Thompson also raised a question about another paragraph that apparently would put a three-foot limit on the height of a hedge in the front yard of a residential property.

"I feel people should be allowed to have a hedge over three feet high in their front yards," he said. "On my street, many are over three feet."

Ziegler said he will recommend

Reception Set On Sunday For Mr. And Mrs. Hunston

EAST PALESTINE — The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Hunston of 623 Park Ave. will be observed Sunday with a public reception held by their family at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post Home.

The reception will be from 3 to 6 p.m. for Mr. Hunston, former Columbiana County commissioner, and his wife, the former Helen Burris.

Mr. Hunston was born in East Palestine and served as mayor for 12 years before becoming commissioner for 12 years.

At one time he worked for the McGraw Tire & Rubber Co. here and later was in the trucking business.

His wife, a native of New Philadelphia, taught school in East Palestine when they moved to Council elimination of the words putting a three-foot limit on the height of hedges.

CHARLES SAYRE of Hill Blvd. asked about the requirements for off-street parking spaces "in case a commercial building is torn down and replaced with another commercial building."

Ziegler replied that the requirement would depend upon the use to which the space was put. For instance, in a retail operation, the ordinance requires one parking spot for each 150 square feet of floor space, plus one for each two employees, he said.

As the hearing neared an end, Dr. C. M. Mayberry of Mayberry Ln. commented: "I have been talking zoning for 30 years. I am sorry it did not come about before we had five service stations within a half a mile in a residential area."

He was referring to the area along outer St. Clair Ave. near the city limits, in which several service stations have been erected in the last few years.

In addition to Sample and Ernest Lowe, Council was represented by Harold Maylene, James Lowe, Mrs. Donna R. Wilson and Norman Bucher. The Planning Commission was represented by Eckert, Robert Owen, George Steele, James H. Grafton and Safety-Service Director Robert H. Vodrey. Solicitor Joseph H. Cooper also attended.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Why has highways is costing society too no one labeled the husband's much — SURVIVOR.

Dear Survivor: The experts in the field of traffic safety tell us that an important factor in many serious accidents is hostility. Sometimes the anger is directed at the world in general — or it may be aimed at the wife-passenger, as you suggest. There's also the possibility that the wild driver may have a subconscious desire to kill himself.

I'd like to describe a daily drama and I hope the players recognize themselves before the lids finally come down on their caskets.

A couple goes for a drive. The outing becomes an occasion for the husband to act out all his hostilities and aggressions. Once behind the wheel, he seizes the opportunity to get even with his wife for every rotten thing she ever has said to him — real or imagined.

Risky driving has become a socially acceptable technique for punishing a wife for whatever is wrong in a man's life. Maybe he hates his mother, or his boss, or his job, or, more often than not, his own inadequacies could be making him miserable. But it's the wife who catches the brunt of it every time.

I suggest that couples who constantly are at war because of the husband's driving find out what is really bothering him and settle the problem at home. If torture is the objective, the husband should admit it, and go out and buy a set of thumb screws at his friendly, neighborhood medieval museum. Wife torturing on our streets and husband I was hurt he said.

Ignored Bride

Dear Ann: My husband and I went together for six years before we married so we knew each other pretty well.

The big problem was religious differences. He wouldn't accept my religion and I wouldn't accept his, so we were married by a judge. All his family came to the wedding and so did mine. Everyone was very friendly and I thought we had it made, but I was wrong.

Out of the blue my father-in-law decided that I do not exist. He refuses to speak to me in public or even when he comes to our home. When I told my husband I was hurt he said,

You know how my father is. Just go into another room."

If my father-in-law wishes to ignore me in public, that's bad enough, but I do feel that my husband should speak up and not let his father treat me so shabbily in our own home.

Should I make an issue of it? — BEWILDERED.

Dear B: You have made an issue of it and it hasn't done any good. Obviously your husband is not emotionally equipped to stand up to his father or he would have done so.

It's downright uncivilized to refuse to speak to a person whose hospitality you accept and I sympathize with you. Swallow it and keep quiet because your alternative might be a shattered marriage and it's too big a price to pay.

TO AM I NORMAL?: How do you know? You might be normal in some respects and wacky in others. Most people are. Your feelings about the man you describe are intense, to say the least, but I would not call these feelings abnormal.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

East, Lorain Hold Lead In 5th-Ranked Princeton Rolls Ohio Voting

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Powerful Columbus East and Lorain Admiral King, ranked 1-2 all season, retained their top positions in the weekly Associated Press rating of high school basketball teams.

East, 13-0, with only three regular season games remaining, picked up 271 points from the state's sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll. Admiral King gained a little ground collecting 233 points on the strength of a 16-0 record.

Another Columbus club, Linden (11-2) shot into third place replacing Lima Shawnee (12-2) as the Indians tumbled to sixth after absorbing an 89-83 loss to Kenton (14-1) and ranked 11th.

Canton Lincoln (12-3) held fourth place despite a 65-60 setback to Massillon while Cleveland East Tech (13-2) moved up a notch to fifth.

Rounding out the top ten were Shawnee; Dayton Roosevelt (14-2); Dayton Balmont (13-1); Newark (12-3) and Marion Harding (12-3).

Harding climbed back into the elite circle after No. 9 Cuyahoga Falls slipped to 13th. Roosevelt measured Cuyahoga Falls 83-79 in triple overtime Saturday. And Belmont lost first, 59-56 to Dayton Roth.

Fort Recovery and Ames-Bern continued their close race for Class A honors. Fort Recovery (16-0) collected 187 points while Ames-Bern (17-0) polled 177. Unbeaten Strasburg (15-0) kept the pressure on the leaders by garnering 158 points.

Northwestern of Wayne County (14-1) was fourth followed by Bloomville (16-1); Woodsfield (13-1); Dalton (13-2); Crestview of Richland County (13-2); Carey (15-0) and Sandusky St. Mary (12-2).

Unbeaten Carey crashed the top ten for the first time as St. Henry (12-2) dropped from seventh to 11th.

Scholastic sidelights:

Massillon, which has lost five times, upset Canton Lincoln last weekend and also holds a victory over Cuyahoga Falls, ranked No. 13.

Dayton Roosevelt's 83-79 triple overtime victory over Cuyahoga Falls was sparked by Rudy Benjamin's 24 points. Roger Evans and Jim Thorne had 29 and 27, respectively, for the losers.

Northwestern and Dalton, in the top ten since the season started, clashed last Friday and Northwestern prevailed, 77-74. Dalton's 6-foot-1 guard, Mark Berg, hit 43 points.

Mike Harris collected 48 points as his Eastern Pike mates trimmed Green last week 98-68.

Rick Ferrell of Portsmouth United Local 11, Wayne, Crest-West counted 55 points for a win (Van Wert) and Avon 10; school record last week. The Granville, Maplewood, Port's previous mark was 53 which mouth Clay and Cincinnati Lock.

Ohio State Falls To Loop Leaders

By The Associated Press

You'll get little argument today from Ohio State as to why Northwestern leads the Big Ten in basketball.

Now from Steubenville as to the validity of the small college ratings.

The Buckeyes raised some false hopes by jumping eight points in front of Northwestern, unbeaten in the conference, late in the first half at Evanston, Ill., Monday night.

Then the roof fell in—and not from the weight of the Chicago area snow—as the Wildcats rambled to a 100-77 triumph that dumped OSU well down into the conference second division.

Steubenville, which in better seasons had some ding-dong games with Southern Illinois and Kentucky Wesleyan, ended a two-game trip to those bastions outscored by a total of 80 points.

Swamped 77-46 by the No. 1 ranked Salukis Saturday night, the Barons tested No. 2 rated Wesleyan at Owensboro Monday night and absorbed a 93-44 licking.

Elsewhere on a 10-game Ohio college slate Monday, Bowling Green had to shoot a torrid 62% from the field to stave off little neighbor Findlay 104-98 while in the Ohio Conference Kenyon handed hard-luck Hiram a 68-66 shading.

In interstate activity, Buckeye Staters wound up 5-3 for the night despite the OSU and Steubenville disasters as Marietta nailed its ninth straight, 86-77 over West Virginia Wesleyan; Xavier barely beat upset-beaten Villa Madonna 56-55. Wooster defeated Hope 72-67; Rio Grande outpointed Oakland City 101-97 and Wilberforce clouted Dayton (Mich.) 91-65. Central State was the other loser, 65-53 at Carson-Newman.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor opened with sophomore forward Jeff Miller a surprise starter on one of the Bucks' injury-depleted guard spots and the Buckeyes moved to leads of 24-16 and 30-24 although Miller went scoreless. Big Bill Hosket was taking care of most of that from underneath.

Northwestern finally edged ahead 42-39 at the half and made the second period a rout as only Miller, switched back to forward, could find the range for OSU. Hosket wound up the game's top scorer with 27 and top rebounder with 18 while Ron Sepic hit 19 points and Miller 14.

Midland's Jeff Lake Nominated For Game

Midland's Jeff Lake was among 21 Western Pennsylvania basketball stars to be named to the first nomination list for the annual Post-Gazette Dapper Dan Club Roundball Classic to be held March 31 at Civic Arena.

Other nomination lists will be submitted later in the week. From these lists will come some of the members of the Pennsylvania All-Stars for their clash with the United States All-Stars of the West Penn and City Catholic teams.

man in the scoring race, according to latest NHL figures. The Chicago center is piling up points at a pace that will top 100 for the season and break the record of 97 set by teammate Bobby Hull a year ago.

Hall and DeJordy, meanwhile, have moved into contention for the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goalies of the team with the best defensive record. New York still leads with a goals-against average of 2.45 per game. Chicago, unbeaten in its last eight games, has 2.47 mark and Montreal is right behind at 2.48.

Charlie Hodge of the Canadians has the best individual mark, having yielded 2.29 goals per-start, and Ed Giacomin of the Rangers is the shutout leader with six.

Hope's Links Classic Opens Wednesday

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — The Bob Hope Desert Classic, fourth tourney on the 1967 pro golf tour, gets under way Wednesday on four courses east of Palm Springs.

Palmer, winner of the recent Los Angeles Open, was expected to fly from San Francisco today for a practice round.

First prize in the third annual Hope Classic is $17,600.

Through Saturday, each pro will play with three amateurs on each of the four courses which lie about 12 miles from Palm Springs.

Junior Editors Quiz on JET ENGINES

QUESTION: How does a jet engine work?

ANSWER: "To every action there is an equal and opposite reaction." This is the famous law of motion stated for the first time by Sir Isaac Newton in 1687. It is the principle which explains the jet propulsion engine. Look at the frog sitting on a bit of floating wood. He jumps—that is the action, but he has kicked the wood back—that is the reaction. Blow up a balloon with air and hold it tight so the air can't escape. The air will be pushing against it, inside, from all directions (arrows in picture). Now release it. The air rushes out through the opening where you blew it in (action). The balloon darts upward (reaction). Jet engines produce power in much the same way. Either a fuel is burned which releases hot gases or compressed, squeezed-down air is mixed with the fuel. The fuel burns, the exhaust gases roar out from the tailpipe. Like the air bursting out of the opened balloon, this is action. The reaction comes as the plane leaps forward and into the air.
